Walloped.

A base ball nine came down from Richmond Saturday and completely mopped up the earth with a Lancaster team. Our boys could put up a good game if they would practice, but they never do any work to get in shape.

Lieut. Farrar's Illness.

The condition of Lieut. John Farrar is greatly improved since our last report. The fever is not of so bad a form as was first thought, and by keeping quiet and having patience

John will soon be on foot again.

Smash.

A team of mules scared at a handcar Wednesday, ran away and knocked down a telephone pole. The wires crossed the telegraph lines and a general mixture of telegraphy, humming and cuss words crowded the local telephone instruments all day.

Big Job.

When Doctor Kinnard contracted for the new walk on Depot street he thought it would be a small job. The grading, however, has turned out to require much work. To look at the teams and men employed, one would think Doc. was building a railroad.

Killed by Thresher.

Harve Norris, son of Levi Norris, who resides near Mt. Hebron, was injured in Lower Garrard by a thresher Tuesday, from the effects of which he died Wednesday. The machines were passing through a gate and Norris was caught between them.

want a dozen fine cabinets for $1.99 come on. They will cost you $3.00

A. J. EARP, Stanford.

Hung Jury.

The case against Wrenn, charged with toll gate raiding, took up Monday and Tuesday in the circuit court.
The gate keeper swore he recognized Wrenn on the night of the raid and a brother of Wrenn and another party swore Wrenn was at another place.
The jury stood seven for conviction and five for acquittal.

To Morgan's Men.

Several of Morgan's men residing in Garrard have decided to accept the invitation extended them to be guests of the Ohio revelry at Cincinnati Ohio.
They ask THE RECORD to say to all who desire to go to meet at Hatcher's shoe shop tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon at 3 o'clock so formal plans can be made. The trip will cost little or nothing and a glorious time is ahead.

A Hot Time.

A good friend of THE RECORD reports that the cake walk at Dripping Springs Thursday night was a warm number in every way. Five couples of dusky dudes and duds participated and the contest was close. Perry Embury, who "waits table" at Crab Orchard Springs, was getter up of the event.
A wagon load of Crab Orchard people under the tender care of Col. Will Brooks, came over and enjoyed the event.

To the Pen.

Monkey John, a negro boy well known about town, was given a couple of years in the penitentiary by a circuit court jury for stealing Tom Hammond's horse. Monkey was sent to the pen a few years ago for stealing, but the warden would not take him on account of his age. Attorney Joe Haselden made his maiden speech in defending the prisoner, and but for his eloquence the jury would doubtless have hung Monkey and Joe too.

Pitiful Case.

An old, blind negro comes here every court day, takes his stand on a prominent corner and keeps up the most pitiful noise by begging for aid. His little speech is set to a doleful tune and the racket has gotten to be a nuisance to those having business on that side of town. The old fellow makes it his business to attend all the neighboring courts. He should be sent to the poor house or some of the numerous other institutions kept up for such cases.

General Greely's 278 Days of Death.

The true story of those 278 days of suffering by Greely's heroic little band of explorers in the Arctic region has been told by General Greely himself, for the first time, for the October Ladies' Home Journal. For years General Greely has kept an unbroken silence about his fearful experience and that of his companions as they dropped dead one by one at his side, and it was only after the greatest persuasion that the famous explorer was induced to write the story.

Brick Kite.

A company has been organized, with Mr. Ham Brown as yard manager, to go into the brick manufacturing business. A lot has been secured in the Baker addition and operations at this writing are in active progress. The company will make and burn about 200,000 brick and have them on the market during October. Mr. J. C.
Hemphill is general manager and book keeper. Those wanting bids for sidewalks and other purposes can leave their orders with Mr. Hemphill. First comes first served.

S. B. White Dead.

Capt. Steve White died suddenly at his residence in Richmond Monday afternoon. He had been complaining for several days but it was thought nothing serious was the matter. Steve White was about forty years of age and had friends all over the state. He was a big-hearted, honest gentleman and one who never turned a cold shoulder to a friend. He was a prominent Knight Templar and many members of that order attended the funeral services.

Prices and Quality.

I have 1,000 samples for Fall and Winter Suits, which are offered at the very lowest prices. I make small profits in order to sell. Tailor made suits as low as $11.25, up to $30.
Ready-to-wear ALL WOOL suits from $7.50 to $18. Come and test the goods and compare prices and qualities, and you will buy. Thanking my old customers, I invite everybody to come to come to see me before buying.
M. D. HUGHES, Agent.

Only a Little Light.

The Stanford Journal says THE RECORD is kicking for the electric lights to burn all night. Not quite so bad as that, brother. We kicked until we got a decent t-ain service and now all we want is a few gasoline lamps to light the streets from town to the depot after the electricity is turned off.
Anticipating the usual objections to any proposed improvements, we merely said a word in advance. Got anybody in your town who kicks against any and every proposed improvement?
If so, our prayers go up for you.

Little Child Dies Suddenly.

Sadie Emma, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hammond, died at 4 o'clock Monday morning.
She was barely thirteen months old, and was an exceedingly bright child, although she was never in perfect health. She was the pet of the household and idol of her parents. The grie-stricken parents, sisters and brothers, among whom is Tommie, an employee of this office, have the sym-paties of many friends in their great bereavement. May they take comfort and consolation in the assurance that she is now in the arms of the Savior, who spake as never man spake, and who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Holidays.

On the 17th of this month falls the Jewish New Year, 5653. The meaning of this day, as described in the Bible, is "The Day of Memorials." The 26th is "The Day of Atonement." On this day the Jews forgive all the enemies they may have made during the past twelve months and spend the day in prayer for forgiveness of their sins.
Mr. Jacob Joseph, of this city, tells us that all his people are strict in the observance of both these days. They close their places of business and under no state of case will attend to any business matter. Mr. Joseph is one of the most zealous followers of his religion we ever saw. If all other people came as near living up to the teaching of the old Bible as does Mr. J. this would be a far better world.

Old Nick to Celebrate.

The good people of Nicholasville are making great preparations for their Centennial, which will be celebrated on the 16th of this month. The citizens of both town and county have gone to work to make the day one never to be forgotten. Special trains will run on both railroads and it is anticipated that more people than ever gathered at a county seat will be in Nicholasville that day. The parade will be the leading feature and every business in the county will be represented. Several of the most prominent speakers in Kentucky will be on hand, and after the big barbecue, oratory of the finest quality will be on tap. The women folks have taken charge of the dinner and its safe to predict that everything good to eat will be in abundance. Garrard county should send over a big delegation and help our sister county make merry. For sociability, pretty women, clever men and a hearty welcome Nicholasville takes the cake, and the writer of this article is never so happy as when within her wide open gates.

Kicking Without Cause.

That some of the sick soldiers have been neglected during the recent war there is no doubt, but because some regiments have been guilty of such oversights is no reason why all should come in for censure. We have seen several statements recently which cast reflections on the Second Kentucky. We have talked to a great many in a position to know, and, in fact, visited the camp not long ago.
The universal opinion of those unprejudiced is that the men of this regiment are given treatment far above the average in army service.
Col. Gaither is a man who will tolerate no shirking of duty, and knowing him as we do, we feel safe in saying that no surgeon would dare neglect a patient in Col. Gaither's regiment.
As a matter of course, the sick are not given the nursing they would receive at home; such a thing is impossible.
A soldier in camp cannot expect to be fed on all the delicacies of the season.
We would have no object in trying to cover up any oversight of Col. Gaither, but knowing him to be a strict discipli-narian, a typical soldier and every inch a gentleman, we dislike to see statements going the rounds calculated to place blame on him which in reality does not exist.

Will Dunlap Returns.

It may be that some people have been given bigger receptions, in point of numbers, but we doubt exceedingly if a boy ever received a warmer, or more enthusiastic one than did Will Dunlap at the Lancaster depot Friday night. That afternoon his mother received a telegram announcing his coming. Men and boys about town soon learned the news, and it was decided to meet Will with open arms. The train does not arrive 'till 12:30 and just as the big town clock pealed forth the midnight hour, the Lancaster band started for the depot playing a lively air. Fully two-thirds of Lancaster's men, women and children gathered at the station and when the gallant soldier, clad in a ragged uniform, alighted from the train, a grand rush was made for him. Had he been a brother of each present he could not have been caressed more fondly. Hobson, with his greatly advertised kisses, was not in it, compared to Will. The fellow, not knowing of the arrangement, was greatly excited and, at first, could not get it clear in his cranium as to what was up. After the great racket had subsided, Letcher Owsley got out his fog-horn voice and made a soul-stirring speech. Letcher is a good speaker at all times, but he fairly out-did himself that night. At one time he would have the hot tears trickling down the cheeks of those present and next he would have them yelling. At the conclusion of the speech Dunlap was placed in a carriage beside his mother and a great procession, headed by the band, marched to town. On the square a general handshaking took place, and poor Will was almost pulled to pieces by admiring friends.

It will be remembered that Dunlap was in the 6th Regular Cavalry, who, with the 16th Infantry, made the great charge at San Juan. He was taken to Montauk Point, L. I., and got thirty days furlough to come home and see his mother. He is about 25 years old and is the only son of Mr. John Dunlap, de'd., and a grandson of Hon.
Geo. W. Dunlap, who was one of the most prominent lawyers in Kentucky.
Young Dunlap was in Kansas at beginning of the war and enlisted as a private to fight for the flag of his country. He looks a little the worse for wear but is rapidly getting back into perfect health. We hope to give some of his experiences in next issue of THE RECORD.

FRIDAY, September, 2 - 1898.

Why not annex the Philippines and then draft the annexationists to go there, keep order, and look out for the welfare of the islands generally?

The people are taking sides with Gen. Miles in his controversy with secretary of war Alger. Miles is a trained, educated soldier, while Alger is a political pot-hunter. That's the difference between the two men. Wide, isn't it?

The politicians, bless their hides, are jumping like cats on first one side and then the other of the annexation question. Of course their only object is to get on the most popular side, and as the problem is a knotty one it keeps them hopping about like a cuss word on a hot skillet.

It took just thirty minutes all told for the republican convention to nominate Hon. Geo. M. Davidson for congress. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Hon. W. J. Williams, at Danville Tuesday morning. Hon. John W. Yorkes was chosen for temporary chairman and made a rousing speech. Mr. Davidson is in Michigan now, and will return and make a vigorous campaign.

The magazines have commenced telling how the "Rough Riders" and Teddy Roosevelt whipped the Spaniards. As these windy articles are the chief "society" such fellows want to war after, the public may look for them thick and fast. One magazine has many pictures showing "charges" made, all of which reminds a fellow of the old yellow back dime novels we all read when young. The illustrations were, no doubt, drawn to order.

Col. W. H. Ziegler, candidate for congress on the Prohibition ticket in this district, was in town this week and made our sanctum a pleasant call. Col. Ziegler resides at Union Mills. He is an exceedingly pleasant conversationalist and bears all the marks of a typical gentleman. He will stump the district and hopes to not only bring out the full vote of his party but win more voters to his side of the house.

A preacher came to a newspaper man in this way: "You editors dare not tell the truth. If you did you could not live, your newspaper would be a failure." The editor replied, "You are right, and the minister who will at all times and under all circumstances tell the truth about his members, dead or alive, will not occupy his pulpit more than one Sunday, and then he will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The press and pulpit go hand in hand with white wash brushes and pleasant words, magnifying little virtues into big ones. The pulpit, the pen and the grave stone are the great saint making trinity." - Ex.

The czar of Russia has startled the world, just as war between England and Russia was supposed to be imminent, by proposing a conference of all the powers to consider the question of the disarming of Europe and reaching an agreement that will insure universal peace. The proposition is in the shape of an official manifesto, issued by the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs in which the evils of the present European system are strikingly portrayed and the horrors of the inevitable consequence deplored. The proposition has aroused great interest in all the European capitals, and the trend of the discussion in London and Paris is favorable to the plan. Opinion as to the outcome of the move is divided. Such an agreement could surely cause no harm, and would more than likely result in much good.

The papers are filled with charges and counter charges as to who is to blame for the many blunders made during the recent war. They may fume and cuss all they want to, but when the whole thing is boiled down to the naked truth it will be found the trouble was caused by the numbskull politicians and political wire-pullers given important positions for which they were totally incompetent. All the trouble at Santiago was brought about by tin generals who were there to gain distinction and nothing more. At Washington, old saddle-bags Alger was legging constantly to strengthen his candidacy for the Presidency. He don't know as much about warfare as does a hog about holiday and the way he hampered the army was disgusting in the extreme. Gen. Miles has a juicy roast laid away for Alger and when he gets a chance it will be served the secretary in the best of style. As to the hospitals in the volunteer camps, the politician saw-bones did the best they knew how, perhaps, but the chances are ten to one some of them had never attended a case before. Politics is a bad thing to get into any kind of business, but more especially that of war. Had men been appointed on their professional, instead of political, merits all this trouble would have been avoided.

A Card from the Trustees.

In it's last week's issue THE RECORD states editorially that Prof. Patterson bought out Prof. Gowen's right to occupancy of the Graded School building. We are sorry to say that Prof. Gowen sold that which he did not own and Prof. Patterson paid for that to which he has been entitled free since about the first of June, 1898 at the termination of the last scholastic year. Prof. Gowen, in a card in the previous issue of THE RECORD claimed the right to hold the residence portion of the school building until the 12th of Sept. 1898 because three years ago on that date he entered it. On reading his card our secretary sent Prof. Gowen a copy of the contract under which he taught our school and occupied the residence belonging to the Graded School building. The contract can be seen at the secretary's office and is that the term of the Graded School is fixed at "nine months and the salary of the principal at eight hundred and fifty dollars ($850.00) and house rent for the ensuing scholastic year." Prof. Gowen accepted the principalship under this contract. The scholastic year has always ended not much, if any later than the first of June each year and we believe a little earlier than that date in 1893, so that Prof. Gowen's time of "occupancy" of the building was known by him to be out at the close of the last scholastic year under the contract and on the principles of common sense and the fitness of things. At the time the copy of the contract was sent and accompanying the same the Secretary sent a dispatch just then received from Prof. Patterson stating that "We will be in Lancaster tonight." Prof. Patterson came in at that night but could not get the building until he agreed to pay Prof. Gowen fifteen ($15) dollars. As this was a very unfair charge against Prof. Patterson the Board will reimburse him. Prof. Gowen assumed last spring that we did not want him for the coming scholastic year when all the teachers who applied were employed for the coming session and he rushed into print several times. But his would-be crushing broadsides were so silly and the distinguished professor kicked himself out so completely that we treated him with the silence which he deserved. Now, however, as THE RECORD makes a statement of the fact, founded, of course, on a misstatement made to it, we ask space for this correction.

DEFYING DEATH.

Sergeant Spears Tells a Thrilling Story of the Assault at San Juan Hill.

The Lexington Press-Transcript prints the following:

"But for the gallantry and dashing charge led by Captain W. C. McFarland, of Company E, Sixteenth Infantry, up San Juan hill, the battle of Santiago would not have been so sum-mary ended," remarked Sergeant C. M. Spears, of Company B, of the same regiment. Mr. Spears received his discharge after three years' service and left Santiago on August 1, for his home in Lexington. His account of the three days' fighting and the surrender of Gen. Toral on July 3, makes interesting reading and fills in some incidents not hitherto published. On the morning of July 1, the order was given for a general advance on the Spanish works. The Sixteenth Infantry, under Gen. Hawkins, formed the center, and the entire line reached from the ocean on the left around to El Cañey on the right and beyond Santiago. After an interesting description of how they cut their way through the underbrush and cactus for about three miles and waded the San Juan river under the fire of Spanish sharpshooters, Mr. Spears tells of the final assault. Grimes' battery of three-inch field guns was located on a hill to the rear of the Sixteenth and about two miles from the Spanish entrenchments. As soon as the open ground was reached this battery shelled the block-house on San Juan hill, and the troops deployed right and left into line of battle and rapidly advanced. Here it was that Capt. McFarland rushed to the front and sword in hand, urged his men up the hill under a withering fire. When about fifty yards from the block-house a shell from Grimes' battery exploded right over Capt. McFarland. Lieutenant Ord, Sergeant Spears, Lieutenant Boone, Corporal Fleming and Private Goode, who were some distance in advance of the others, Lieut. Ord was knocked down and Captain McFarland was struck in the head and fell forward, the blood streaming from his wound. Sergeant Boone rushed to him and helped him to bind up his head with what is known as the emergency bandage. They were standing in wild grass up to their necks, and the officers in charge of the battery could not distinguish them even with their glasses. McFarland sprang to his feet and put his hat on his sword and waved it to notify the battery to cease firing. All of this was in a perfect rain of Mauser bullets, and it is a mystery that all of this gallant band was not killed. They cut the barbed wire fences with their sword bayonets and drove the Spaniards from the trenches, killing and wounding all of them who had not retreated to the block-house. Lieut. Ord had the guns and side-arms removed from the wounded and while looking after their wounds was shot by a wounded Spaniard who was leaning against a tree a few feet away. Sergeant Spears turned and killed the Spaniard as Ord, placing his hands to his head, staggered away several steps and fell dead. Private Fleming, of company A, was wounded and Sergeant Boone carried him to the rear and dressed his wound. Capt. McFarland ordered the gating guns to the front, and four of them were dragged to the top of the hill by the soldiers of the Sixteenth and opened fire on nearly 10,000 Spanish reinforcements who were rushing up the opposite side of the hill from their second line of works, about 500 yards away. By this time the rest of the troops who opened such a galling fire all along the line that the enemy were mowed down by the hundred. Nearly 2,000 Spaniards were killed here and Santiago was practically captured, although the fighting continued until Sunday morning about 12 o'clock, when the flag of truce was raised. During all this fighting Capt. McFarland never left the firing line, and while his men were dying in the trenches at night he went back to the commissary and made repeated trips carrying a gunny sack of canned goods on his shoulder to his company. He lost all but two of his non-commissioned officers and 35 per cent. of his company were killed or wounded.

The Sixteenth Infantry has nothing but praise for all their line officers, and all unite in giving Captain McFarland great credit for the splendid way he led the charge that practically settled the fate of Santiago. Van Dorn, of company H, Sixteenth Infantry, planted the first flag on San Juan hill. Every man who has been mentioned in this short sketch, from Capt. McFarland down, are too modest and unassuming to press their own claims for recognition, but it is nothing but right that while others are being so favorably mentioned that a plain, unvarnished statement of the truth be told. Honor to whom honor is due, whether it be rank or file. When a very prominent army officer in Washington saw Sergeant Spears' discharge he said, "Young man, if you can get two or three Senators to endorse you I can put shoulder straps on you today." Sergeant Boone, of Wichita, Kansas, seemed to bear a charmed life. He was in the thickest of the fight, and one of the first to reach the trenches. He helped his Captain to dress his wound and carried his comrade, Fleming, to the rear after the death of Lt. Ord.

Captain McFarland slept in the trenches with his men. He did not even have a "shelter-half." He did not go to the hospital, and refused to come north after the surrender until his men could come with him. His thirty years of service expired on July 2nd of this year. Spears' description of the bombardment of Santiago and of the exchange of Hobson, which occurred in full view of the San Juan block house, is interesting. He does not think much of the Cubans and says they steal just because they can, and take things for which they could have no possible use.

A CRITICAL TIME

During the Battle of Santiago.

SICK OR WELL, A RUSH NIGHT AND DAY.

The Packers at the Battle of Santiago de Cuba were all heroes. Their Heroic Effects in Getting Ammunition and Rations to the Front Saved the day.

P. E. Butler, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago, De Cuba, on July 23d, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor, for it was a case of race and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health in fact, I sincerely believe that at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the packers had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My comrade and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack-train before we left Tampa, and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life." The above letter was written to the manufacturers of this medicine, the Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by R. E. McRoberts.

Priceless Pain

"If a price can be placed on pain, 'Mother's Friend' would be worth a fortune. My wife suffered more than a year from neuralgia, and she was unable to do her work. She was treated by the best physicians, but to no avail. Finally, she was cured by 'Mother's Friend.' It is a blessing to any one expecting to become a mother," says a customer.

Thus writes Henderson Dale, Druggist, of Miami, Ill., to the Druggist & Apothecary Co., of Atlanta, Ga., the proprietors and manufacturers of "Mother's Friend." This successful remedy is not one of the many internal medicines advertised to do unreasonably things, but a scientifically prepared liniment, especially effective in adding strength and elasticity to those parts of woman's organism which bear the severest strains of childbearing.

The liniment may be used at any and all times during pregnancy up to the very hour of confinement. The earlier it is begun, and the longer used, the more perfect will be the result, but it has been used during the last month only with great benefit and success.

It not only shortens labor and lessens the pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child, and leaves the mother in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery.

"Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists at 50c, or sent by express on receipt of 10c.

Valuable book for women, "Before Baby is Born," sent free on application.

The hemp crop is practically a failure in Woodford this year, very little being planted and that little being very poor. The fact of the business is that the increased price of cattle and the larger profit in tobacco have almost induced the bluegrass farmers to abandon hemp.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Mr. J. M. Hall, a leading Harrodsburg farmer, told the Harrodsburg Democrat that owners of good short horns are not disposed to grumble at the outlook. Mr. Hall says there is not enough short-horns in the state for stock purposes and the demand for them is good. He has recently sold quite a number of bulls, from $ to $11 months old, at $100 each.

The Michigan peach crop is enormous this year and selling at about 50 cents a bushel. Some big money is made by growers. Near Benton Harbor 30 W. Rose bought a farm for $35,000. From the first crop he paid $3,000 of the purchase price, and is now clear of all debt. Good peach land brings from $100 an acre, according to location.

For sponge cake, weigh six eggs, take their weight in sugar, and half their weight in flour; separate the eggs carefully; add the sugar to the yolks, and beat until light; then stir in carefully the well-beaten whites; sift the flour two or three times, adding a little at a time, folding and cutting it in. RICHMOND, Ky., Aug. 30.—Gen. Cassius M. Clay, who became conspicuous some months ago by his child wife, formerly Dora Richardson, refusing to live with him, has filed a suit for divorce in Madison circuit court. His attorney, Jerry A. At present Dora, his child wife, is living on a farm near Elkhart, Woodford county, which was purchased for her by the general. It is said the farm will be part of the alimony he has agreed to give her. The old general purchased the farm Saturday and declares he will support Dora as long as she lives. The case will come up at the September term.

HUNGRY GRASSHOPPERS.

They Eat Up the Entire Washing of a Kentucky Woman—They Were After the Starch That Was in Them.

DOWLING GREEN, Ky., Aug. 27.—The grasshoppers of this county have been playing havoc with the corn crop during this section for some time, but not until Thursday were they known to eat up a washing of clothes. Mr. Frank C. Girard, former grand master of Kentucky masons, has just returned from a visit out in the country and brings with him a story of this fact having been accomplished. It being wash day the family washing was done, the clothes well starched and hung on the line to dry. When they went to take them in, in the evening, almost every garment was in shreds. The soft paste or starch on the clothing had proved a dainty morsel for the hungry hoppers and they had made a feast of it.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 27.—The closing day of the week showed little change in the local tobacco market. The few changes noticed were all for the better. Offerings were light, aggregating but 35 hogheads, divided into 21 burley and 14 dark. The quantity of the burley offerings was the same as on the preceding days of the week. The lower grades continued to be in the greatest demand. There was practically no difference between the market Thursday and Friday. Of the 14 hogheads of dark tobacco all but five hogheads were of the new crop.

Little Pimples Turn to Cancer.

Cancer often results from an impurity in the blood, inherited from generations back. Few people are entirely free from some taint in the blood, and it is impossible to tell when it will break out in the form of dreaded cancer. What has appeared to be a mere pimple or scratch has developed into the most malignant cancer.

"I had a severe cancer which was at first only a few blotches, that I thought would soon pass away. I was treated by several able physicians, but in spite of their efforts the cancer spread until my condition became alarming. After many months of treatment and growing steadily worse, I decided to try S. S. S., which was so strongly recommended. The first bottle produced an improvement, I continued the medicine, and in four months the little scab dropped off. Ten years have elapsed, and not a sign of the disease has returned."

R. E. WILLIAMS, Louisville, Miss.

It is dangerous to experiment with cancer. The disease is beyond the skill of physicians. S. S. S. is the only cure, because it is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach cancer.

Plot to Blow Up the Jail at Pineville, Ky.—Lynamine Found in the Cell of a Prisoner.

PINEVILLE, Aug. 26.—James Surber, who is in jail here, charged with violating the internal revenue laws, is charged with having attempted to blow up the jail with dynamite Wednesday night. The plot was discovered in time to save the jail and perhaps a dozen lives.

Two dynamite cartridges were discovered in Surber's cell, and he, with three other prisoners, was brought before Judge Neal for investigation. The proof tended to show that Surber was going to place the dynamite in a crevice of the wall at midnight Wednesday, which would have destroyed the jail and perhaps have killed every person in it. A warrant was issued against Surber for the attempt.

Either broil, braise or fry the lamb cutlets as you please and serve on a mound of spinach (previously rubbed through a sieve and heated with a little cream, white pepper and salt), and serve with the following sauce round: Stew a small cucumber in white stock till tender enough to rub through a sieve, then add to it a little milk or white stock, and allow it to reduce till it is a pretty thick purée; then stir in with this a short half pint of rich bechamel sauce, season to taste with white pepper and salt, reheat the whole in the bainmarie, coloring it to a pale cucumber green with a drop or two of green coloring, and just as you are about to use it in a spoonful or two of stiffly-whipped cream.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FASHION NOTES.

Materials and Make-Up of Some of the Costumes of the Summer Season.

Among the newest ideas is the trimming of bright-colored wool fabrics with ruffles of silk muslin. A dress of light-blue veiling has a skirt almost covered with little ruffles of silk muslin arranged in groups and forming scallops and points. The waists of these dresses are extremely elaborate, the majority of them having waists and sleeves either of guipure or solid embroidery. Some of them are of the dress material ornamented with needlework, ribbon and silk applique, gimp, and, indeed, any of the trimmings that are now so popular.

The grotesque is approached by the finish of some of the new sleeves. They are wide, flaring cuffs that almost entirely conceal the hands. An imported costume is shown with cuffs that resemble the brim of a soft hat with the crown sewed inside of the sleeve proper, so wide and floppy are these new attachments. They are not only awkward-looking, but exceedingly uncomfortable, necessitating the use of both hands if one performs the slightest office, as one hand is necessary to hold the enormous cuff back while the other is occupied.

Evening dresses of velvet are highly approved. They have low-cut necks, and sleeves of lace, and are, therefore, no warmer than the lighter fabrics. A dress of primrose velvet is trimmed with white beads and white gimp arranged to form connecting links or festoons between embroidery or single figures of passementerie. The skirt of one of these dresses is almost covered with fine lines of bead work, gimp and the aforesaid figures.

A stylish hat is in a shape not unlike the sailor, but with a brim sufficiently full to curve up at the sides and down at the front and back. The trimming is one very long, wide and heavy ostrich plume fastened under a buckle in front and falling over the back of the hat almost to the shoulders. Under the brim are crushed roses and on the side opposite is a scarf of silk muslin.

A handsome carriage cloak is made of putty-colored cloth. It has a trimming of ribbon about two inches wide, which is set on in embroidery or braiding pattern, and filled in with fine stitches wrought with embroidery silks. The garment is double-breasted and has one large lapel, a high, rolling collar, and sleeves with the tops slightly full.

A stylish dress has the skirt plainly made and finished at the hem with a ten-inch-wide trimming of plaid silk. The waist is made of the same silk and has a yoke, collar and cuffs of heavy guipure. There is a belt of the material and little jacket skirts that are stylish, although somewhat patchy in effect.

The newest skirts flare out sharply around the feet. The general effect seems to be modeled on the plan of an ordinary feather duster.—N. Y. Ledger.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Some Items of Information Upon Various Subjects of Home Interest.

An English recipe for cooking potatoes is worth a trial and then adoption. Boil some potatoes until nearly tender, cut in thick slices, butter a baking dish and arrange the potatoes in layers, putting between each layer sliced bacon and grated cheese. Moisten thoroughly with a little stock, cover with grated cheese, put a few bits of butter on top, and bake in an oven about a half hour or until browned.

The coin spot muslins still continue popular for curtains. The new fabrics come in double widths, while the spots are in all sizes. Nearly all of these curtains are tied back close to the window, with wide, loose bands of the curtain stuff, edged on the bottom with ruffles of the same. Very few windows now show the old loopings of ribbons or cords.

Twigs of peach, apple, cherry, lilac or the flowering currant, cut off now and placed in a vase in a summer window and given plenty of water, will soon burst into bloom. In the invalid's room or nursery these advent couriers of the spring will find a special welcome.

A cup of hot water, declares Sir Andrew Clark, of London, possesses the same medicinal qualities attributed to an equal amount of whisky, while lacking in the injurious properties. Hot water in abundance is especially recommended in malarial troubles.

Remember that when fat bubbles it is only just melting and not at all in the right condition for frying. After the bubbling has subsided, a slight smoke will arise, and that is the moment the material should be put in.—Washington Star.

Spinach.

Spinach as often cooked is a coarse, sodden mess, that, like human character, isn't half as good as it might be. Try this way of preparing it. Wash and pick over, picking the leaves from the stems. Put into a porcelain saucepan and set in a pot of boiling water, cover closely and cook 15 minutes. Stir up well from the bottom, then put into the saucepan a salt-spoonful of soda dissolved in a table-spoonful of boiling water. Peel well, cover, and cook ten minutes longer. Drain the spinach, add butter, salt and pepper, a little sugar and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Serve on a hot platter and garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg. The soda gives a fine color to the vegetable. Less than a peck of spinach will not make a fair-sized dish.—Detroit Free Press.

Graham Husks.

Two and a half cupsful graham, two cupsful wheat flour, a half teaspoonful of salt, one-third cupful of butter, one-half cupful sugar, one cupful of milk (a little more than lukewarm), one-half cupful of yeast sponge (yeast that has had one rising) and two beaten eggs. Mix the ingredients in the order named, beating each in thoroughly, set in a warm place to rise which will take from three to four hours; then form into biscuits. Let them rise again until light; then brush with melted butter and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. These need to be made the day before.—Leisure Hours.
